Engaging with Many — We should often ask strangers spiritual questions in order to plant gospel seeds or to have Gospel conversations.

Spiritual Conversations with People We do not Know

The first five letters of the P.L.E.A.S.E. acronym pertain to the lost people we know. But what about the many unsaved people we do not know, who we interact with as we go throughout our day? We should not overlook them, but instead we should intentionally strive to engage with them by asking thought-provoking questions.

Most of the daily encounters we have with people we do not know last only a few seconds. Therefore, the most we can do and should do, is to ask a spiritual question (see the below cards and other cards at all41life.org/conversing/) and give them the card, or a gospel tract. You can do this by saying, “I like to ask people I meet a very important question and it is this (read the question on the front of the card and give it to them). It is a great question and I hope you might take the time to think about it. Have a nice day.” Your church information will be on the back of the card along with a link to a gospel presentation. The Holy Spirit can use a great question or tract to plant a seed so that the person we met might be saved.

On other occasions, we might have more time with someone. It is then that we can prayerfully ask a question that might lead into a gospel conversation. You can do this by saying, “I like to ask people I meet a very important question. Would that be ok with you?” If they give you permission, then ask them, “With all the conflict in our world today, what do you believe is the key to experiencing personal, inner peace?” If they do not know or give a wrong answer, then say, “May I briefly share with you a booklet (tract) written by the Billy Graham organization that is entitled Steps to Peace with God? The message in this booklet enables me to experience great peace each day.” If they give you permission, then read the tract to them, ask them if it makes sense to them, and lead them to trust Christ as their Lord and Savior, if they so desire. If they are not ready to receive Christ, then leave the tract with them and thank them for their time.
